

Joe is a cancer survivor, veteran, and the proud owner of Hemptopia CBD in Louisville, KY. After battling cancer and serving his country, Joe discovered firsthand the natural healing properties of CBD.

Joe owns and operates CBD Time in Lexington, KY and Hemptopia in Louisville, KY. His experience building up CBD Time (2019) gave him an in-depth knowledge of the CBD industry and best practices for running a successful CBD business. This inspired him to open Hemptopia, where his personal passion drives his mission to provide the Louisville community with diverse, high quality CBD products and legal Delta THC products.

With his military background, Joe runs his shop with integrity, focus, and discipline and oversees every detail. Joe prides himself on offering not only premium CBD oils, edibles and topicals, but also specialty items like delta-8 products.

As a CBD user himself, Joe knows the products inside and out. He makes it his priority to educate customers, answer questions, and ensure each person finds the right CBD solutions for their needs. His genuine desire to help people feel better naturally sets Hemptopia apart.

In addition to running his CBD shops, Joe is a vocal advocate for the hemp industry in Kentucky. He actively campaigns to educate lawmakers and the public about the benefits of hemp. Joe is a member of the Kentucky Hemp Association, where he works to promote sensible hemp regulations and provide factual information to politicians. His goal is to see Kentucky emerge as a national leader in hemp production. With his passion and knowledge of CBD and hemp, he sits down with state representatives to discuss how best to expand Kentucky's hemp industry and ensure the future growth of his own and other hemp-derived businesses. Joe is committed to advancing Kentucky's hemp agriculture and economy through his advocacy efforts.

Stop by Hemptopia in Louisville for Joe's guidance and discover the CBD difference. Joe and his experienced staff are ready to exceed your expectations, providing second-to-none service and the highest quality selection of CBD products around.