

Hello! Thanks for visiting Kitchen Whisperer!

Excellent space planning combines and synchronizes 3 elements: Form, Function + Flow to create beautiful, quality kitchens that blend your unique style with long lasting functionality, giving you, your family and friends a special place to gather.

You may be wondering what Form, Function + Flow is and why it's important in planning your kitchen? As a kitchen space planner, I believe it's the trifecta of kitchen planning.

Form represents the physical parts of your kitchen: cabinets, hardware, countertops, appliances, flooring, tile, sinks, faucets and light fixtures. There are many, many products to choose from, and we can guide you in selecting beautiful, quality, timeless products you will enjoy for many years to come.

Function is the ability to complete tasks~ chopping, mixing, cooking, cleaning, storing and charging in your kitchen. A functional layout simplifies work flow processes and provides efficient storage for all of your cooking tools, serving pieces, groceries, and whatever else you need in your kitchen, integrating modern technology. The space you work in ~ where meals are made, lunches are packed, and devices are charged!

Flow is the connection between your work zones, and accessibility of these work zones to each other~ the space flowing within your kitchen and from your kitchen into adjacent rooms.

We use creative problem solving to sculpt space and light, altering the layout to simplify the work flow of your home. We're always thinking outside of the box~ how can we make your kitchen flow better within itself and in relationship to your entire home.

Once space planning is completed, it's time to integrate color, style and technology into your kitchen.

In planning the style and feel of your kitchen, I advise starting with three main colors, typically the colors of your cabinets, countertops and flooring~ large swaths of color. Add more style with accent colors~ metal cabinet door pulls, your faucet and light fixtures; a colored tile backsplash; and in artwork, accessories and furniture. These design elements apply, whether your style preference is contemporary, traditional, or transitional.
